

INFORMATION REGARDING PROCESSING OF PERSONAL DATA

For Civil Rights Defenders, the protection of human rights is more important than anything else. This includes the protection of individuals' integrity and personal data, which is governed by the so-called "General Data Protection Regulation". We have elected to be transparent as to the manner in which we process personal data, for example with respect to our donors and subscribers to our newsletter. Naturally, we do so in accordance with the rules of the General Data Protection Regulation. Below, you can read how we process the personal data of various individuals, why we do so, for what period of time, and with whom we might share the personal data.

Civil Rights Defenders, reg. no. 802011-1442, is the data controller for the processing of personal data described below.

All processing of personal data and marketing carried out by us takes place in accordance with the Swedish Fundraising Council's guidelines.

WHEN WE GATHER PERSONAL DATA AND THE PERSONAL DATA WE GATHER

We gather and process your personal data (i) when you make a donation to us, (ii) when you subscribe to our newsletter or sign up for one of our events, (iii) when you apply for a job with us, and (iv) when we believe you should be contacted by us because you might want to contribute to our activities. The information we gather normally consists of contact information such as names, telephone numbers, addresses and/or e-mail addresses. In certain cases, it also includes your title and the organisation represented by you. Depending on the purpose to be fulfilled, however, other personal data may be necessary, such as your personal identification number and bank account number if you make regular contributions to us via autogiro or with your professional experience when you apply for a job with us. In such case, we may also obtain information from publicly available sources.

In situations where we gather personal data directly from you, i.e. when you choose to make a donation, subscribe to our newsletter, sign up for one of our events or apply for a job with us, we will tell you which information is obligatory in order for us to be able to fulfil our part of the agreement, i.e. to send a newsletter to you.

WHY WE PROCESS PERSONAL DATA, FOR WHAT PERIOD OF TIME, AND OUR LEGAL BASIS FOR THE PROCESSING

The processing of personal data is permissible only where there is a specific purpose for the processing and an applicable so-called "legal basis". Furthermore, processing of personal data is permissible only during a limited period of time. Civil Rights Defenders will only process your personal data for the purposes set forth below and at no time for any purpose which is otherwise incompatible with those purposes. Furthermore, we will only process personal data for the period of time set forth in the centre column in the table below. Please note that we may be compelled to deviate from the time limits in the table in cases in which we must process your personal data in order to comply with, or demonstrate that we comply with, applicable legislation, such as the Swedish Accounting Act. In such cases, however, we will only process your personal data to the extent such laws so require or make it necessary for us to do so.

Donors. If you make a regular (e.g. monthly) donation to Civil Rights Defenders or have made a donation to us at any time, you are registered with us in order for us to make it possible for you to make payments, to maintain our relationship with you, and to send information to you regarding our operations, e.g. our annual report.	We retain your personal data for three years after you have made your last donation to us. However, you can unsubscribe to our send-outs at any time.	In conjunction with regular donations, processing is necessary in order for us to fulfil our agreement with you (i.e. make it possible for the same amount to be withdrawn from the same account, e.g. every month) and that we can see to our legitimate interest in collecting additional contributions for our activities. If you have made a donation on one or more occasions, all processing is based on our legitimate interest.
Newsletter. If you subscribe to our newsletter, we will obtain your e-mail address in order to be able to send the newsletter to you. You can unsubscribe at any time by using a link in the newsletter.	We will process your personal data until such time as you unsubscribe from our newsletter.	Processing is necessary in order for us to be able to fulfil our agreement with you (i.e. provide the newsletter requested by you).
Events. If you have signed up for one of our events, we will process your personal data in order to make your participation possible. This may include sensitive personal data, e.g. if you state that you require special assistance because you use a wheelchair.	We will process your information until the event is held. Thereafter, we might contact you because we regard you as a potential donor but, if you do not make a donation, we will remove you from our register after a period of not more than six months.	The processing is necessary in order for us to be able to fulfil our agreement with you (i.e. arrange the event you wish to attend). To the extent we collect sensitive personal data, we will gather your explicit consent. As regards our subsequent processing, kindly refer to “Contact within the context of our fundraising work” and “Contact within the context of our advocacy work”.
Job applications. In the event you apply for a job with us, we will process your personal data, i.e. the information provided in your documents, in order to determine whether we will employ you.	We will retain your application until the employment process is concluded.	The processing is necessary in order for us to be able to fulfil our agreement with you (i.e. process your application).
Contact within the context of our fundraising activities. As a non-profit association, we are dependent on donations in order to be able to conduct our activities and protect human rights. One way we do so is by means of contacting persons we regard as potential donors. These contacts may, for example, be made to persons we have encountered in the course of our activities or who appear in the registers we have ordered.	In the event you appear in a register which we have ordered, we will contact you within three months after we have received your personal data. If you do not respond, your personal data will be erased after not more than three months following our first contact. If you choose to make a donation to us, we will process your personal data in accordance with the above.	The processing is necessary in order for us to be able to see to our legitimate interest in collecting additional donations for our activities.

PROCESSING	STORAGE TIME	LEGAL BASIS
Contact within the context of our advocacy work. Our work involves contacting journalists, politicians and others we believe can benefit the protection of human rights in the world. If you are in such a position, you may accordingly be contacted by us and you may appear in our register of persons we wish to contact. For example, this may consist of an invitation from us for you to join an event or information regarding current events in our operations. We may adapt our contact method to you, for example depending on your profession or where you are geographically located. If you do not wish to be contacted by us, you can object at any time.	We will retain your personal data so long as we believe you should receive be contacted or until such time as you state that you no longer wish to be contacted by us.	The processing is necessary in order for us to be able to see to our legitimate interest in conducting advocacy work for protecting human rights.

We also analyse visitor statistics and visitor behaviour on our website, but this is done in respect of anonymised data and on an aggregated level, which means that we will at no time track any individual visitor's behaviour.

SHARING YOUR PERSONAL DATA

Only persons who need your personal data in order for us to be able to fulfil the purposes set forth above will have access to it. However, we may need to share personal data with third parties in order to achieve such purposes. Normally, these third parties process personal data on behalf of us as so-called "data processors", for example by providing storage services, marketing services or IT systems

The aforementioned sharing may entail that your personal data is transferred outside the EU/EEA. In the event this occurs, such shall occur in accordance with applicable data protection rules and will normally be based on the EU Commission's standard model clauses for such transfers. You may find them here. In the event we transfer personal data to the U.S., this will be based on the "EU-U.S. Privacy Shield" provided that the recipient is certified.

YOUR RIGHTS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE GDPR

If you have any questions regarding our processing of your personal data, you should direct them to info@crd.org. You may also use the contact information at the bottom of this document. This contact information may be further used if you desire to exercise any of your rights in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation. Please note that these rights are not absolute, and a request to exercise such right will not always result in any action. Your rights according to the General Data Protection Regulation include:

- Right to access – According to Article 15 of the General Data Protection Regulation, a data subject is entitled to access to his or her personal data and certain information concerning the processing thereof. That information is presented in this document.
- Right to rectification – According to Article 16 of the General Data Protection Regulation, a data subject is entitled to rectification of incorrect information and completion of incomplete personal data.
- Right to erasure – Under certain circumstances, a data subject in accordance with Article 17 of the General Data Protection Regulation is entitled to the erasure of his or her personal data. This is the so-called “right to be forgotten”.
- Right to restrict processing – Under certain circumstances, data subjects are in accordance with Article 18 of the General Data Protection Regulation entitled to restrict processing by the data controller.
- Right to data portability – According to Article 20 of the General Data Protection Regulation, data subjects are entitled to obtain their personal data (or have them transferred to another data controller) in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format.
- Right to object – According to Article 21 of the General Data Protection Regulation, a data subject is entitled to object to particular personal data processing, e.g. all processing based on Civil Rights Defenders’ legitimate interests.

Finally, all registered individuals are entitled to lodge a protest with the supervisory authority which, in Sweden, is the Swedish Data Protection Authority.

COOKIES

This website uses cookies. A cookie is a small text file which is sent to a web browser from a server and is stored on your computer for a pre-determined period of time. Cookies are often used to improve your experience as a visitor to a website, for example by recalling your choice of language settings.

If you do not wish to allow cookies, you can change the settings in your web browser, e.g. so that you are notified each time a cookie is installed. In this way you can determine on a case-by-case basis whether a cookie will be accepted. Please note that refusal of a cookie may impair your experience.

For reasons of transparency, we have listed the cookies used on our website below.

Civil Rights Defenders uses three types of cookies which are stored for not more than two years or until such time as the visitor clears his or her browsing history:

- one that makes our website remember the language used by the visitor on the page during the last visit in order to improve the user experience;
- one which remembers whether the visitor was informed and approved the use of cookies; and
- one which is linked to Google Analytics in order to measure traffic to and from crd.org in order for us to be able to compile statistics to help us understand our visitors better.

No personal data is saved since each visitor receives an automated and randomly generated numeric string which may not be used to identify the visitor.

With the exception of Google, whose tools we use, Civil Rights Defenders does not share this information with third parties.

DATA SECURITY

In order to ensure that your personal data is secure with us, Civil Rights Defenders has implemented technical and organisational security measures in order to protect your personal data from, for example, unintentional erasure or impermissible access. These measures include firewalls, traceability, limitations on access and crisis management routines as well as organisational routines pertaining to the manner in which employees will act in their professional roles.
